

I enjoy the content and audio quality that XM Radio has provided and for which I am willing to pay for. XM radio's new traffic and weather service is an invaluable asset that again I am willing to pay for. Just as my DirectTV service provides me The Weather Channel service the information on local weather and traffic while I am driving both in my home city and cities I am traveling to is absolutely great! XM Radio has shown innovation so don't squash it. The small monopoly owned stations provide the same tired old playlists and will not innovate. I don't even bother listening to them anymore XM Radio is a breath of fresh air. Don't kill it.

Besides, the NAB's argument doesn't even wash in the face of the US Congress decision to allow the satellite TV providers to provide local to local broadcast for the very reason that it gave tv consumers more choice, even if they are willing to pay for it.
